REED MIDEM ANNOUNCES MIPIM PROPTech NYC IN NOVEMBER 2019

Panelists Confirmed for Two-Day Event on November 12-13, 2019

NEW YORK – July 1, 2019 – Reed MIDEM and MetaProp NYC are pleased to announce the third annual 2019 MIPIM PropTech NYC on November 12-13, 2019 at the Metropolitan Pavilion in Manhattan. Reed MIDEM, the leading organizer of global real estate conferences and networking and business events, together with MetaProp NYC, the New York-based venture capital firm focused on PropTech, join forces to organize the flagship event of NYC Real Estate Tech Week. Due to popularity, this year's event has been extended to two days, a first for the summit.

This year's panelists include major PropTech influencers such as Cleve Adams, CEO, Site1001; Ryan Anderson, VP of Digital Innovation, Herman Miller; Kai-Uwe Bergmann, Partner, BIG; Jeff Berman, Partner, Camber Creek; Aaron Block, Co-Founder and Managing Director, MetaProp NYC; Mallorie Brodie, CEO, Bridget; Steve Shpilsky, CEO, Stay Open Hotels; Josh Sirefman, Head of Development, Sidewalk Labs; Taylor Wescoatt, General Partner, Concrete VC; and Julie Samuels, Executive Director, Tech:NYC.

The annual MIPIM PropTech NYC has become a global magnet for C-suite real estate leaders and technologists interested in the latest trends shaping the future of their businesses. Last year's summit hosted 1,500 participants from 50 countries and 100 speakers to discuss the current state and potential of the real estate technology industry.

"We're excited to announce this year's expanded event consisting of even more leading professionals in the real estate and technology industries," said Nicolas Kozubek, Director, MIPIM PropTech. "We look forward to hearing their perspectives, experiences and insights on the future of the built environment. The discussions here shape the future of our industry."

A Forward-Looking Built Environment

This year, the summit will deliver a wider approach to the future of the built environment, exploring how the real estate ecosystem—from city planners to developers and asset managers to owners and tenants—are leveraging technologies to improve user experiences. The summit aims to cover the real estate industry's ability to anticipate and meet user needs when quality of life and work is increasingly gauged on a wider range of factors, including health, accessibility, affordability and life-work balance.

Additionally, the event's thought leaders will look to provide solutions to major stakes such as ecological transition and social inclusion.

Panel topics will include: CEO Perspectives: Emerging Trends in CRE Tech; Creating Value with Connected Assets; VC Perspectives: Domestic and International Markets; Beyond Buzzwords: Space as a Service in Action; Will AI Disrupt Commercial Real Estate?; GAFA in the City: What is the Value for Humans?; ConTech: Building a Better Built Environment; How Future Mobility is Impacting Cities, Development and Experience; Cybersecurity for Urban Dwellers.

"The MIPIM PropTech NYC has the power to unite the industry on a global scale, and the best is yet to come," said Aaron Block, Co-Founder & Managing Director, MetaProp NYC. "Growing off the momentum of last year's successful event, we have extremely high expectations for the third annual summit. We are hoping to replicate both the size and the diversity of our previous summits, as this diversity is crucial to continued industry growth."
